the same are hereby solemnly pledged for educational purposes, and shall not be transmitted to any other fund for other uses, and the interest thereon shall from time to time be apportioned among the several counties as the Legislature may provide by law; and the Legislature shall provide for the sale of floating land warrants to cover the aforesaid lands and for the investment of all proceeds derived from any of the above mentioned sources, in United States bonds or bonds of this State, or the bonds of other States of the Union; provided, that the interest only of the aforesaid proceeds shall be used for educational purposes and any surplus interest shall be added to the principal sum; and provided further, that such portions of said interest as may be necessary may be appropriated for the support of the State University."

From the above section it can be readily seen that the Legislature is directed to provide for the investment of all proceeds derived from any of the above mentioned sources. Legislative enactments have already been placed on our statute books for said investment in United States securities and in bonds of this State, and it only remains for you, gentlemen, to pass a measure directing said investment in accordance with the Constitution as amended. This can be better accomplished by amending Section 4 of "an Act to provide for the safe keeping of the securities of the State School Fund," approved February 21, 1871, so as to read: "Said Board shall direct the State Treasurer to negotiate for investment of the same in United States securities, or in bonds of this State, or in bonds of other States of the Union."

I would suggest that this be done at your earliest convenience, so as to enable the State Board of Education to invest the $111,343 cash now on hand in purchasing bonds of other States of the Union, which is at present more advantageous than either of the other methods provided by law.

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

An appropriation for a State exhibit at the World's Columbian Exposition to be held at Chicago, Illinois, in the year 1893, is a question to be met with a forethought of the depression our industries are now undergoing, and I feel confident that you, with your knowledge of the best ends and means, and meet it effectively.

While we cannot expect to successfully compete with more populous and wealthier States, we should be sufficiently liberal to enable our Commissioners to do honor and credit to our great commonwealth. Let it be a practical manifestation of our varied resources, and it will undoubtedly prove profitable to the State and of wonderful interest to all visitors. It may be argued that an appropriation for this purpose is neither judicious nor essential, as it cannot be expected to yield immediate results, but bodies politic have a thought for the future, and in my estimation a moderate outlay will serve to maintain our good standing among our sister States and Territories, and is certainly one of the very best methods of advertising the many industries of our State.

STATE MILITIA.

The several military companies of the State are showing marked improvement in every essential particular and great interest is being manifested by officers and men in their duties. They are at present a strong and proper adjunct to the civil authority. It would, I think, add materially to their efficiency and discipline if provisions for an annual encampment of troops for a few days could be arranged without too great expense to the State. A well disciplined and equipped State militia is a necessity, and, notwithstanding it has been urged that seventy-five dollars per month for each company for armory rent is excessive, I regard the sum total which it costs the State to support this branch of her service, viz: for 1889, $7,581.88, and 1890, $7,647.75, as very small, considering the splendid body of men now enrolled and the service they would be able to perform if required. For a careful record of the workings of this department I commend to your consideration the Adjutant-General's report.

MINES AND MINING.

Owing to favorable legislation upon the silver question our mining industry, which is paramount to all others, is showing marked improvement, and it is gratifying to note the activity which now prevails in all of the outlying districts. Many of the old mines, which were closed down on account of the low price of silver, are now being reopened and worked at a profit. There now appears to be but little doubt of the passage of a free coinage bill by the present Congress. This, I trust, will greatly relieve the depression which has so long prevailed in this all-important industry. I am not aware of the necessity of any legislation upon this subject except in case of the defeat of a free coinage bill by the lower house of Congress, or of a veto by the President, in which event it will be quite unnecessary for me to suggest a very strong protest by the Nevada Legislature.

FISH COMMISSION.

The report of Hon. George T. Mills, as Fish Commissioner, is full and complete. It is a most careful resume of his work and contains many interesting facts and details. The attention of your honorable body is particularly called to the Commissioner's statements relative to the depositing of sawdust in the Truckee river.

The best of results are being obtained by Mr. Mills, and as an encouragement to the conscientious fostering of our fish interests I ask judicious reading of the report and such an appropriation as you, in your discernment, may then deem suitable.

APPORTIONMENT.

Section 13 of Article 1, of the Constitution provides that representation shall be apportioned according to population.

As a new census has just been completed the advisability of a reapportionment of the State for members of the Legislature is with you. There has been a falling off in the State's population, and this will necessitate a reduction in our legislative representation. In the interest of economy and retrenchment such a lessening would meet with the warm indorsement of the people.

STATE INSTITUTION.

I shall, at the earliest possible moment, make a personal examination into the management of the several State Institutions, with a view of ascertaining their condition and to see if any improvement can be made in the interest of economy and for the good of the inmates. Governor Bell will doubtless present to you, in his message, a detailed statement of their present condition and their management for the past two years, which, so far as I am informed, has been, as a rule, eminently satisfactory. The reports of State officers and the various Boards and Commissioners are before you and are guides to necessary legislation. I bespeak for them a careful examination by you, and the consideration by the people that reports of faithful officers deserve. The reports of the Controller, Treasurer, Surveyor-General and, in fact, all the State officers are thorough, accurate and comprehensive and reflect great credit upon their authors.

IN GENERAL.

The appropriations for the ensuing two years, if I may so advise, should be kept within the lines of true economy, by which means the various departments of our State service will be endangered and our State institutions will continue in a prosperous condition. All measures with this end in view will receive my warm support.

I trust during the next four years the people of the State will have no cause to complain of duty on the part of any of its officers. The present legislators will have the advantage of all preceding ones in that they will have, on the first day of the meeting, full and complete reports of all the State officers laid before them, which will enable them to immediately enter upon the work of the session. This should obviate the necessity of crowding the work during the last days of the session which is too often the case, and usually results in bad legislation. My predecessor, Governor Bell, has placed me under obligations to him by his courtesy in extending to me every facility for familiarizing myself with the routine work of the office, which has been a very great assistance to me in dispatching business.

Finally, gentlemen, you will find me at all times ready to consult and advise with either of your honorable bodies, committees or individual members upon all matters of public interest. You have my best wishes for a brief and harmonious session, and that your deliberations may result in the greatest possible good.

R. K. COLCORD,
Governor.
